ART IN ARKANSAS
FALL FASHION & BEAUTY STYLEBOOK

Rosemary Faucette and her husband George decided to remodel their 1960s Fayetteville home room by room, and when it came time for the bathroom, she wanted monochromatic colors, beautiful glass and a contemporary design. With help from Andi Stephens of Kitchen Distributors in Fayetteville, her bathroom was transformed into a functional and relaxing space.

(above) The uniquely shaped Toto toilet blends perfectly into the contemporary design, and the original Jim Dines print offers touches of color and texture. (left) Once covered in pink flocked wallpaper, the bathroom walls were updated with two tones of sea-green Venetian plaster, and a double-level counter complete with custom-designed drawers adds function and depth. Rosemary discovered the hanging light fixtures online, while ceiling-to-floor and wall-to-wall mirrors reflect light throughout the space. The basin sink continues the glass theme with its frosted stripes and one-of-a-kind shape. (facing page) Rosemary loves to incorporate glass throughout her home, and the glass shower was no surprise. The accent wall and floor boast Venetian glass tiles in two tones of green, while the clear glass walls allow the tile work to show through to the rest of the room. ■
